"We've Got It Made"

The new slogan for the State of Virginia is also appropriate for CHS. This school doesn't have the newest buildings or thehighest paid teachers or the best heating system. It doesn't have the latest in audiovisuals or the most sports equipment or enough electric typewriters. Yet CHS does have dedicated staff members, major equipment such as computers, and much student enthusiasm.

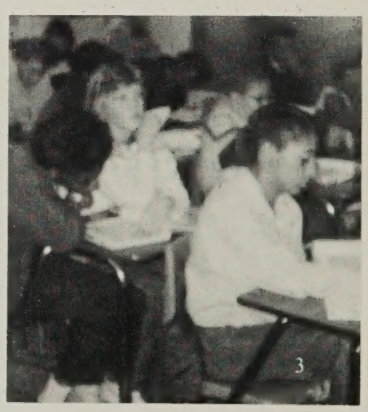
Bad? Better?

Students always say Cumberland is boring, that its a poor county, that school lunches are terrible, that nothing ever happens at school. Yet there are no gang fights and students aren't afraid to walk from one class to another. And students get a lunch for only 65¢ — some schools don't even have a lunch program at all. Things aren't perfect, but CHS is closer than many places.



1. Fikria and Khalida Stwadah attend a CHS field trip. 2. Tim Matney works on a project in building trades. 3. Seventh graders listen closely to Mr. Miller talk about world news. 4. Coach Walden and Iris Langhorne prepare for another Varsity Basketball game. 5. Cindy Brown studies hard for her government exam.

Sports

In sports, a student grasps at the physical limits of the body using all his skills and knowledge and competing not only with others but with himself.

At Cumberland, a participant has it made — he can play football or basketball; he can run track; he can take drivers' education; he can take advanced P.E.; he can go to games or be a cheerleader. The list is endless.

Win A Game — Please!

1983 was not a winning season for the Dukes. The team was small and several of their key players suffered injuries during the season. Even so, the team did achieve several victories. Players also enjoyed the Homecoming Parade, the pep rallies, and the bon fire. Some players had it made — such as Tray Richard, who was named to the all-district team for two positions and Tommy Brown, who was voted "Mr. Football." The Dukes did manage to win three games, two which were the first and the last games.

What a Year!

Homecoming for 1983 was quite an event. There was a lot of spirit generated during the week — cheerleaders put up posters, the students dressed up on various days, a pep rally was held, and donations were accepted to help buy a motorized wheelchair for Ophelia Redmand. Cheerleaders and football players and students had it made for a whole week. It all concluded on Friday, with the game against Amelia and a dance.

Work, Sweat and More Work

The players of the J.V. Football team worked hard this year. Practices were every day and games were hard. There weren't many victories to improve the team's moral, yet players seemed to enjoy the homecoming bonfire, the Mr. J.V. Football contest, and the pep rallies.

The Work Force

The Girls J.V. Basketball team strived to do their best this season, or so the players said. Most participated vigorously at and hoped to improve and possibly move up to the Varsity basketball team soon. Efforts paid off and the girls had a winning season this year.

The 1983-84 Girls' Basketball team had it made! Under the direction of Coach Will Robinson, the team had a pretty terrific season. Several players, including Irene Taylor and Rita Scales, received trophies for their outstanding performances during the season. Several key players will be returning to help the team keep its winning streak going.

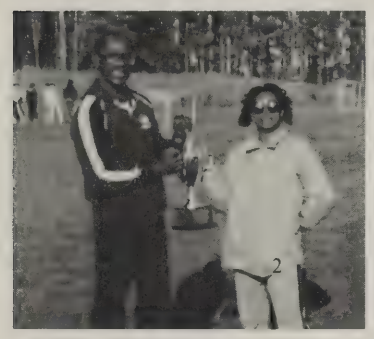
Just Joggin' Along . . .



This year's Cross Country team ran straight through and won the district. Though it has only been apart of Cumberland sports program for two years, the Cross Country team has done extremely well. They captured the district title for the second year in a row.

The team's power comes from it's talented runners. Not like most schools which have only one or two talented runners, Cumberland's whole team is filled with running talent. Finishing the regular season undefeated, the Duke team was disappointed with eleventh place in the Regional meet. All in all the Dukes are looking very good.

The Tradition Continues

The legacy of good CHS basketball teams was continued again this season as the Dukes got started with a sixteen game winning streak. After dropping their next two games to defending JRD Champions Lunenburg and Nottoway, the Dukes got back on the track canning the James River District regular season title with wins over Prince Edward and Goochland. They were 2nd in State.

Rising to New Heights

The J.V. boys really made it big in 1983-84. They practiced hard, played hard, and finished the year with a phenominal winning season, placing first in the district. One player remarked that hard work really paid off. Many of the players are looking forward to playing on the varsity squad next year.

"We're Burnin' Up"

Most 8th and 9th grade girls must think cheerleaders have it made because the 1983-84 J.V. squad was unusually large. According to veteran Varsity Cheerleader, Donna Hamrick, they also had a lot of pep. They were enthusiastic at games and participated in fund raisers. Many cheerleaders attended a summer cheering clinic and they appeared in new uniforms for basketball season.

6. J.V. Cheerleaders Marie Hamrick and Elaine Marshall work in the concession stand during a basketball game. 7. The J.V. Cheerleaders get lined up for a spirit raising cheer. 8. Chrissy Archer is co-captain of the J.V. squad.

They've Got Spirit

The Cheerleaders had it made. They created new cheers and inspired the teams and fans.
Their performances showed how hard they worked and how full of spirit they were. The cheerleaders are an important part of school because they develop the high moral of team mates and public.

Roll Up and Play Dead!

The wrestling team had a great year in district competition. For the last two years, they have captured the James River District Championship.

The "Gold Fever Gang" was coached Garry Ferris. He has a background in wrestling and likes the sport immensely. He said that it would be an experience for the young men coming up. He also said wrestlers should give 100% to the team and 10% to themselves during practice.

The team set a record for the highest score ever achieved — 81-0 — against a school in Richmond.

Touch All Bases

The 1984 Junior Varsity Baseball team was basically a new team. They worked under the direction of Coach Richard Goode. Members started practice later than the varsity team and had to work extra hard to catch up. According to one player, the team excelled in sportsmanship and participation.

Members expected the first game to be a hard one — they were right, but the team managed a defeat.

The "CHS" Team

Cumberland's 1984 baseball team was hard to beat. They had a hard-working defense and a hard hitting offense. Most of the players on the varsity team came up from the JV squad. Many of the players were juniors.

The weather was a major drawback at the beginning of the season. Rain and cold weather hindered practices. However, Coach Buddy Martin kept working the team, holding some practices in the elementary school gym.

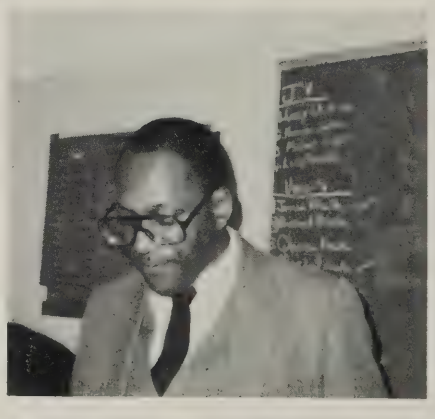
Breaking Away

CHS has been doing exceptionally well in outdoor track in recent years, and this year was no exception.

The team was coached by Ms. Kempy Tillerson and Mr. John Walden, who also coached cross-country track. According to Ms. Tillerson, the team had great potential and good talent, but needed more participation to be the best in the district. Early practices were not well attended but gradually the team gained in membership and in endurance.



1. Robert Wade, Earnest Brooks and Kim Carter stop long enough to have their picture taken. 2. Ms. Tillerson takes time out to daydream about winning the gold. 3. Coach Walden plans his strategy for the first meet. 4. Kim Carter shows off his track uniform. 5. David Cochran not only ran cross-country, but outdoor track also.

Let's Play Ball!

The girls softball team, coached by Gerry Ferris for the second season, returned to the field, and began the long preparation that would weld these individual talents into a team. Girls softball has been quite successful during its time as a Cumberland sport. The team got off to a slow start, with many players coming out late, but after that the team picked up.

Several players were returning players, which added to the team's strength. These players were able to give their skill and expertise to other new players. They had also worked with Coach Ferris and know what to expect.

Practices were hard — the team members had to run the bases, practice° catching, do exercises, listen to lectures, and get ready to play.

The work, according to one player, was well worth it. Linda Warren said, "It's fun — I like to play."

1. Coach Ferris prepares the starting line-up for the next game. 2. Sharon Stinson attempts to catch a fly ball. 3. Clubs and Activities

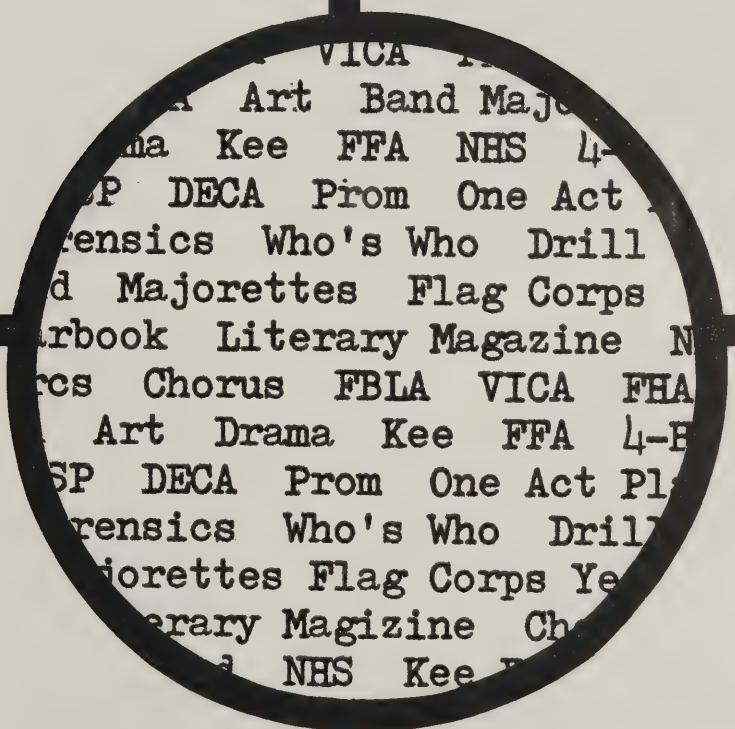
We have it made in Cumberland. Even though no pay is given to club sponsors, teachers volunteer to do them anyway. Even though students don't always receive honors and recognition for their activities, students still join FFA and NHS and work in the yearbook and help in the community. Even though the county is poor, the students raise enough money to have a prom and publish a literary magazine.



Making It Better

The 1983-84 school year saw the SCA holding the installation of new officers. Officers were President, Tony Brooks; Vice-President, David Cochran; Secretary, Michelle Lipscomb; Treasurer, Becky Anderson; and Reporter, Gerry Trent.

Members, along with the help of the sponsors — Mr. Ernest Miller and Mrs. Carol Barker — organized a "mini" — homecoming parade and a semi-formal homecoming dance. They also held a Christmas social for faculty and administrators of CHS, sold tankards featuring the 1983-84 Dukes Basketball Schedule on the back, and exchanged ideas with other schools. Members visited the General Assembly in February and attended the annual State Spring Conference.

This was a very active year for the SCA — they were helping to make CHS a better place to be.

Striving

Stressing academic achievement is the major goal of schools and at CHS the NHS is helping. This year academic letters were awarded to deserving members and two students — Rita Scales and John Robinson — received their second letter.

Tbe NHS had a campaign to publicize the club in an effort to make students more aware of grades and the importance of study.

To raise money to buy pins for next year and honor cords for the seniors, the NHS sponsored several fund-raising activities, such as selling key chains.

They Made It

The FFA had it made this year. They attended the State Fair, achieving awards in crop judging and livestock judging. They had it made also with their high scores in the Parlimentary Procedure contest, Forestry contest and tractor driving contest. The preparation and practice paid off in the long run.

Just Like Home

How is it possible for school to be just like home? Ask the Future Homemakers of America. The FHA club baked goods, made articles of clothing and even took care of children on occasions. But, this is not all FHA did. They took several trips, held interesting demonstrations in their meetings, helped with parades and even planned social events.

The FHA had a very productive year and is still going strong. They worked hard to make C.H.S. a home for the students and faculty.

Luck of the Clover

The 4-H were on top of the competition this year. They had it made in their tremendous citrus fruit sales and participation for the annual sweet potato bake-off, demonstration contests and judging teams. Students received a helping hand from extension agents Mr. Van H. Petty and Ms. Gayle Thompson; volunteer people also contributed their time and energy to the younger members helping to build 4-H projects into worthwhile award winning masterpieces.

A Helping Hand

One club at CHS is always willing to lend a helping hand. That club is the Kee Club.

This year the club tried to help others make it in the world. Members jumped rope for the heart fund, walked for the Virginia Lung Association, contributed to the Rescue Squad, gave blood to the Red Cross, and raised funds to help Ophelia Redmond get a new motorized wheelchair.

Members had fun in other ways. They sponsored the Sweetheart Dance in February, went on a skating trip, and took a hike to Bear Creek Lake.

The club got a new sponsor this year, Mr. Harold Holmes. Although new to the county, he has been a tremendous asset to the club.

Buckle Up!

CHS has one very civic-minded club — the VSSP, or Virginia Student Safety Program. The club had a campaign going to encourage the wearing of seat belts, to avoid drunk driving, and to follow safety regulations. Essay contests were sponsored, offering cash prizes, to help with their publicity. The VSSP wanted everyone to "have it made" by being alive and well.

Hand Me A Brush

Making it in art is not always easy, but the Art Club tries to lend a helping hand. They sponsored the annual Christmas Door Decorating Contest, won by Mrs. Petty's homeroom. They awarded the annual art award, entered exhibits in the Five-County Fair, helped with the Flower Show, and decorated the board in the library.

Better Business

The Future Business Leaders of America keep progressing in their activities each year. They have more guest speakers, their fund-raising techniques keep getting better and they always have bake sales to satisfy ones needs. The F.B.L.A. shows what leadership really means and what it means to be a leader.

When Opportunity Knocks, Go For It

One club teaches members practical job skills — that club is DECA. This year members learned to operate cash registers, write resumes, and get to work on time. Members competed in various contests in marketing, distribution, and other categories.

Advanced students were placed in jobs and their progress monitored. Many area stores cooperated with DECA, including Winn-Dixie and Roses.

DECA sponsor was Mrs. Carol Laird. She has sponsored the club for the past three years.

Peeks, Pokes, Nibbles, and Bytes

The Computer Club has an interesting group of members such as president, Weldon Jones and advisor, William Adams. Other members include Billy Nyggard, Dawn Adams, Walter Tusim, and Eddie Simms. This club was organized last year by Eddie Martens, a graduate of CHS. The club is interested in hands-on experience programming of computers; the fascinating machines of tomorrow.

1. Mr. Martin instructs students on the operation of the TSR-80's.
2. The most recent addition to Cumberland High's computer system is the Commandor Vic 20's Personnel Home Computers.
3. Bill Adams takes time out from programming the computer.

That's Entertainment

Who ever said you have to work hard to be a star was undoubtedly correct. The C.H.S. Drama Club members work very hard and put on several productions to entertain the student body and faculty. They also presented plays after school hours for the benefit of parents and other citizens in the Cumberland area. The Drama Club also entered competitions with surrounding schools.

Drama Club's performers put in many hours of practice on and off stage. Off stage, the cast learned their lines and onstage, they continued to learn their lines and rehearse them. The stage crew was also kept busy with make-up, props and directing but That's Entertainment.

1. Ernie McCraw prepares to load props for One Act Competition. 2. The 1983-84 Drama Club are: ROW 1: Charlas Goode, Rodney Davenport and David Balthaser. ROW 2: Donna Hamrick, Linda Warren, Jean Hurt, Michelle Faggins, Lori Wood, Tina Weesner, Kim Eames, Pam Dixon, Joyce Holman and Ronne Lamb. 3. Donna Hamrick rushes to play practice with the camerman close behind. 4. Jean Hurt finds her make-up creations amusing. 5. Kim Eames and Linda Warren discuss the minutes of the last Drama Club meeting. 6. Weldon Jones extends his character farther than necessary.

What An Act?

For the first time in quite a few years, the CHS Drama Club presented a mystery/comedy for its one act play.

The play was entitled "WHODUNIT," and involved several people trying to kill each other for different reasons. The play takes place in an old house with mounted animals for decoration, secret passage ways in the fire place, candlesticks, and furs and airfreshner for murder weapons, and a surprise ending.

1. Ronne Lamb says, "I dare you to take that picture." 2. Donna Hamrick is estatic about One Act Competition. 3. Ronne Lamb is the stereotyped "frumpy creature in the sweater." 4. William Adams practices his lines for the play. 5. Sponsor Mrs. Elizabeth Jamerson reads the play.

CAST:

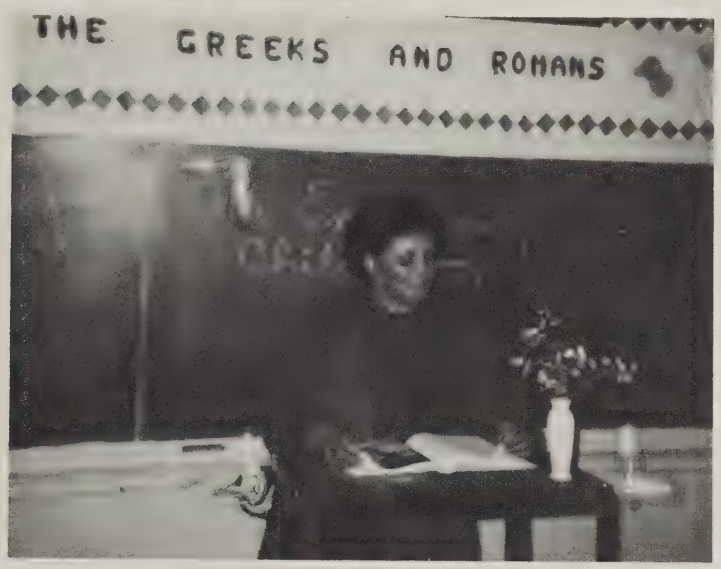
Jean Hurt enjoys acting all the time. 7. Ernie McCraw checks out the fireplace for use in the play. 8. Ben Varnier gets ready for his role in the play of "thunder." 9. Dawn Adams and Kathy Skelly make excellent stage managers.

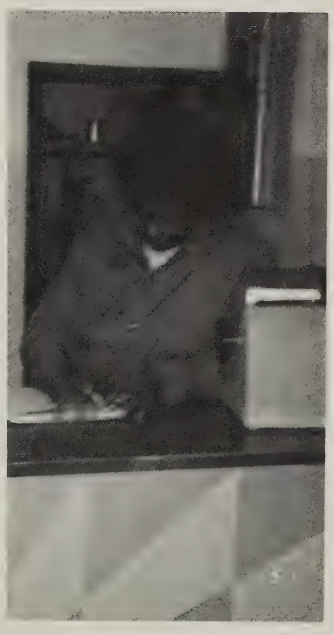
We've Got The Beat . . .

The Drill Team at CHS have made a success with having more fund raisers so they can buy new uniforms. The Drill team has been sweating it out this year on their routines to make their school proud.

1. Miss Keener helps with the CHS Drill Team.

2. Francis shows her talent. 3. Mrs. Scales conducts her regular fall meetings.





Helping Hand . . .

During the year the office help and teacher aides were ignored. The Cumberland High students appreciated their prompt work that they have done. They were always in need.

4. Library Aides: Vanessa Ford, Michael Vaughn, Donna Hamrick, Anna Liles, Rita Scales, and Thomas Toney.

5. Sharon Brown checks over the early dismissals.

At Last!

The Band had it made at last! The new uniforms arrived and the band no longer had to march in matching blue jeans and tennis shoes. The uniforms made their first appearance at the Farmville parade and then at the annual band Christmas concert at the elementary school.

1. ROW 1: Tammy McAbee, Lisa Martin, Brigitte Luckett, Anna Liles, Chris Foster, Scott Morgan, Billy Price ROW 2: Ray Morris, Tabatha Reed, Chris Riddle, Kenny Duker, Bruce Partridge, Mark Trent, Elton Fisher, Ernest Allen ROW 3: Louis Schalow, Vern Miller, John Robinson, Terry Seal, Kevin Browns, Carl Jones, and Clentis Branch. 2. Drum major, Anna Liles, leads the band in the Farmville Parade. 3. CHS Band marching in the Farmville Christmas Parade. 4. John Robinson hard at work practicing.

Twirling to Success!

This year's squad of Majorettes performed well considering their uniforms. Like the band, they performed half-time shows during football season in matching blue jeans and white blouses. The new uniforms arrived in time for their performance in the Farmville parade.

1. Dawn Adams twirls her way down Main Street, Farmville. 2. Michelle Nolan models the new majorette uniforms for the photographer. 3. Kathy Skelly, Dawn Adams and Brigitte Luckett perform a routine for the judges in the Farmville parade. 4. ROW 1: Michelle Nolan, Dawn Adams. ROW 2: Kathy Skelly, Brigitte Luckett.

When the Flags Flutter . . .

The Flag Corps got off to a late start this year. Participation was fairly poor but they amnaged to gather enough girls to complete the squad. They got new uniforms as well as new flags this year. Members include Sherry Nolan, Nora Randolph and Shirley Monroe.

5. Flag Corps members parade their new uniforms and flags down Main Street, Farmville. 6. Flag Corps member Nora Randolph leads the performance. 7. Shirley Monroe smiles for a photographer.

The Voices Are Heard

The chorus practiced scales, learned music and rehearsed for many hours. Instructed by director Doug Lister, the chorus made it — they were ready to give their annual Christmas concert. Director Lister drilled the chorus students until they improved vocally and they were rewarded by the applause of the audience.

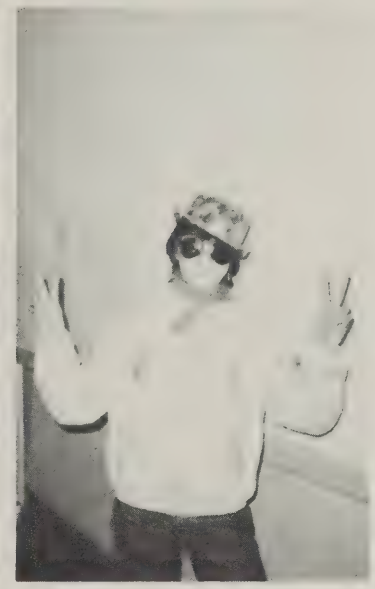
A Toss of the Coin

A vital piece of literature at the high school was the HEADS AND TALES literary magazine. The magazine contained artwork, essays, poetry, and short stories contributed by students and faculty alike.

Under the instruction of Mrs. Robin Smith, the staff had it made with many publication sales and extra credit for students.

HEADS AND TALES was designed to bring students out of the woodwork and into the campus spotlight with their creative writing.

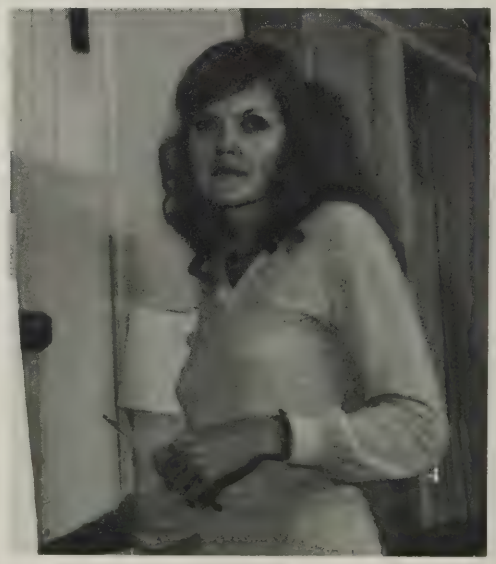


1. Mrs. Robin Smith frantically finishes work before a deadline. 2. Weldon Jones — Unleashed! 3. Anna "Bless the Pope" Liles flashes the peace sign to promote HEADS AND TALES. 4. The HEADS AND TALES staff are Row 1: Pam Mullins, Ronne Lamb, Anna Liles Row 2: Lynn Couch, and Mrs. Robin Smith. People missing are: William Adams, Wanda Mozingo, Dina Mozinog, Cindy Brinklow, Billy Nygard, Weldon Jones and Dawn Adams. 5. Pam Mullins and Ronne Lamb take a break from their busy schedule.

Still Achieving!!

The yearbook made it through both good and bad times in 1984. It was good that the yearbook received more financial support from the school board. On the other hand, it was bad that only three second year students returned to work with the yearbook. Although first year students were plentiful, the task of producing a yearbook was not exactly "a piece of cake."

A special thanks is given to the ever diligent yearbook sponsor Mrs. Jamerson. Without whose help there would not be a yearbook worth mentioning.



1. Valerie Robinson, Pamela Dixon, Kimberly Eames, Irene Taylor, David Balthaser, and David Creelman discuss the Yearbook layouts. 2. Donna Morgan types a copysheet for the Yearbook. 3. Jennifer Harrington and Wendy Trevillian work on sorting pictures. 4. Mrs. Jamerson closes the door to trap the students so their work will get done. 5. The 1983-84 Yearbook Staff are: Tina Weesner, David Cochran, Valerie Robinson. ROW 2: Wendy Trevillian, Anna Liles. ROW 3: David Creelman, Pamela Dixon, Irene Taylor. ROW 4: Jennifer Harrington, Chris Warner, Ben Varnie. ROW 5: Donna Hamrick, Kimberly Eames, Linda Warren. ROW 6: Ronne Lamb, Jean Hurt, Connie Riddle, Charles Goode. ROW 7: Pam Mullins, David Balthaser. ROW 8: Ernie McCraw, Mrs. Jamerson, Mike Bernard, and Donna Morgan. Not pictured: David Andrews.

In Memory of Bonnie Daves

Bonnie was an asset to the school; The students felt a great sadness in their hearts.

The yearbook staff would like to extend its sympathy and deep regret to the family and friends of Bonnie Daves.

Bonnie Daves —, July 15, 1966 to December 29, 1984.

Joe Brooks — Dedicated Employee

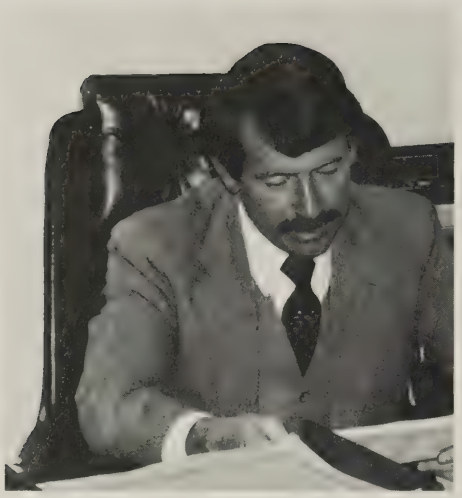
Mr. Joe Brooks was certainly a dedicated employee of Cumberland County Schools. He worked here for 21½ years and was a mechanic and bus shop supervisor. He retired this year. For his efforts he had been presented a plaque by Dr. Robert L. McDaniel at the January, 1984 School Board meeting.

He was also active in the community. He was a member of the Cumberland Branch of the NAACP, financial secretary of the Young Men's Social Club, member of Randolph Lodge No. 30 F & AM, and treasurer of the Cumberland County Fair Association.

Faculty

Sometimes teachers and administrators don't think they have it made in Cumberland. Salaries for the teachers are among the lowest in the state, classroom space is limited, the budget is never big enough, the library is too small, no one is ever pleased with the heat (or lack of it), the paper work is endless, and the work never stops. There are papers to grade, forms to fill out, problems to solve, meetings to attend, and classes to take.

Yet, faculty members all agree that there are some things to be grateful for. The teachers generally get along with each other. The students here are some of the best in the world (according to a non official poll taken in the teachers' lounge).



Having It Rough

It wasn't always easy to juggle the budget to be able to afford heat AND a phone. Sending students home for misconduct wasn't fun. Trying to comply with new state guidelines with limited classroom space was no picnic. Yet, administrators have some great students and qualified personnel. The maintenance and the cafeteria staff worked hard to provide good nutritious lunches. Yes, administrators had it made in Cumberland.

1. Dr. McDaniel reviews the list of students suspended. 2. Donna Sloan, secretary of the superintendent, types a memo for Dr. McDaniel. 3. Ms. DePew, assistant superintendent, is busy with the Cumberland High School newsletter. 4. Mrs. Willis surveys the absentee reports. 5. Sarah Jackson and Dr. Bashem look on as Mrs. Blackwell works on the school records. 6. Mr. Foster, assistant principal, addresses the teachers at another assembly. 7. Mrs. Wolcott types the announcements. 8. Mr. Scales, the director of transportation, seems pleased with the good records of the bus drivers.

It's Rewarding

What was good about being a teacher at CHS? According to teachers at CHS, it was being able to work with the students. Teachers agree that students from CHS are among the best anywhere. Many are disadvantaged, the county cannot afford to build recreation centers, the school board cannot afford to pay club sponsors — these things combined made teachers feel needed.

Teach!

Teachers at Cumberland worked hard and accomplished many things this year. They wrote course descriptions, worked on curriculum guides, filled out countless forms — perhaps next year they won't have to do it again. Then teachers will think they have it made in Cumberland.

Journeying to Education

One hundred-eighty days out of the year, between 7:30 a.m. and 9:00 a.m., big yellow buses were traveling for the same destination — Cumberland High School. And, who were behind those steering wheels? None other than the devoted Cumberland bus drivers.

These drivers covered many miles and some. Besides driving students to and from school, they also transported them to plays, sports events, and other extracurricular activities.

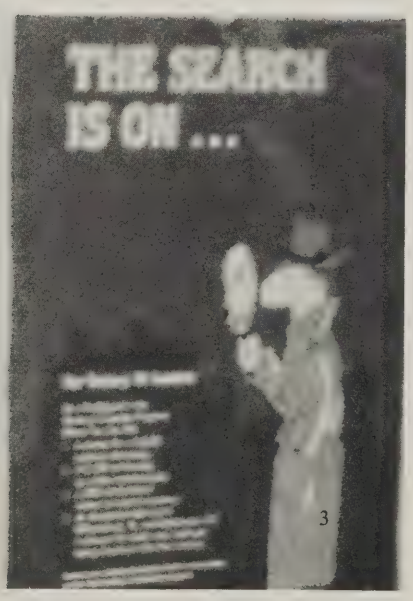
Here's to the Men Who Make CHS Sparkle!!

The custodians at Cumberland High School this year worked very patiently with the heat and plumbing. They put countless hours in as overtime trying to maintain the systems. The custodians are the ones responsible for giving Cumberland High its sparkle.

1. Howard Harris makes sure the rooms have a clean sweep. 2. Carl Brown puts his coat on after a hard day of work. 3. So this is what is behind the master minds!



Serve 'Em Up!

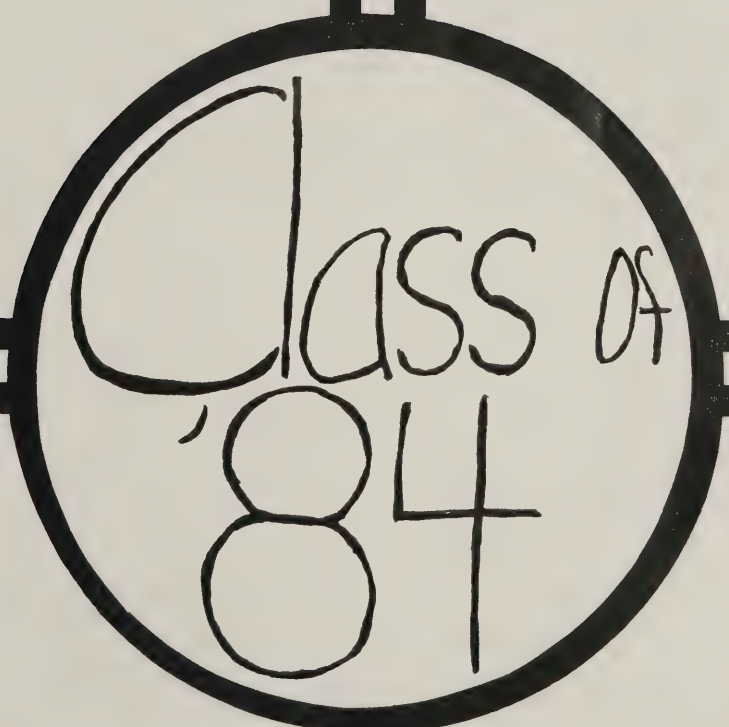
The students at CHS really had it made as far as the cafetaria went. Many of the staff members — including manager, Mrs. Sally Hatcher — have been here long enough to be super efficient. The prices did not go up for lunches this year, despite inflation. And in an era when many schools found it impossible to continue to operate a cafeteria at all, CHS had a cafeteria staff that still insisted on making homemade rolls.

1. Mrs. Hatcher is honored at an FFA dinner for her good cooking. 2. Michael Liggon waits for Dawn Adams to decide what she wants while David Cochran counts his change. 3. Mrs. Rhoden prepares a meal for CHS students. 5. Mrs. Rhoden takes a break and smiles for the camera.

4. Carolyn Crump enjoys another delicious lunch in the cafeteria.

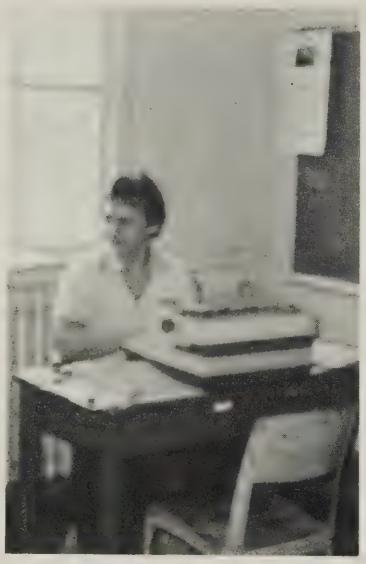
SENIORS

Seniors were on top this year — they are practically the only students guaranteed a seat at an assembly. The other students had to stand while they marched into the gym. They also escaped the new state requirements which will be instituted next year requiring all students to be in school all day, and requiring more skills.



Funds

Money is always a problem for any organization, team, club, or group. The Senior Class is no exception. Collectively, they needed money for class trip, graduation, class picnic, and class night. Individually each senior needed (or wanted) money for announcements, class key, yearbook, prom dress/tux, graduation clothes, caps and gown, and senior portraits. Seniors found out how much it costs to be on top.



1. Janet Honebein looks at a picture of a friend. 2. John Robinson takes a break from his class-work. 3. Donna Hamrick, Tammie Price, Kelly Nolan exchange cheers during halftime. 4. Is This It?

The twelve years of grueling studies, sweating over tests and homework was finally over, or was it? Many Seniors decided to pursue college, enter the armed forces and still there were the undecided few.

The Seniors had it made first with enthusiasm in the donut sales, car washes, dances and Senior class trip. The Seniors had struck Cumberland High by storm and were the ruling force throughout the school.

The upperclassmen left another year to be remembered by faculty, administration and students alike by their added support, good humor and kindness. A tradition to be admired for years to come.

Trippin' Out

The Seniors had it made — they made it all the way to Florida on their class trip. To do it, they also had to make money. They held bake sales, sold donuts, sponsored car washes, and sold sausage and cheese. It was a lot of work, but — according to them — it was worth it.

Final Step

1. Bill Adams takes a break from the computers.
2. The Senior Queen Candidates and their dates lead the pack at the Homecoming Dance.

Graduation is always a big step. Seniors worked hard to plan a graduation at Jarmen Auditorium, at Longwood College, in Farmville, Va. Mr. Reggie Smith, Jr. was asked to speak and Rev. Pat Staples to give the prayer. Caps and gowns were ordered early and so were flowers and programs. Seniors wanted to make graduation a success.

THE UNDERCLASSMEN

The underclassmen had it made — most could now hold offices in clubs and organizations. They were able to get involved in school activities such as football, basketball, track, and band. Finally they could work on a yearbook and contribute to the literary magazine.

Ten down — Two To Go!

Being a Junior was fun and exciting. They had it made — they were able to create a prom for the Seniors. They took their S.A.T.'s for college, many obtained jobs; some decided on a future.

Money, Money, Fun!

The Juniors had it made. They had many fund raising activities. They had car washes, a Thanksgiving dance, the Jr./Faculty basketball game and the big buck contest. All of those activities lead up to fun for the Juniors. They also sponsored the Jr./Sr. Prom. A big event at any high school.

Changes!!?!

There were many changes this year. The present sophomore class will have to put up with these changes for two more years. Some of the changes will ultimately be for the best is the general consensus of the 10th graders. Maybe they do have it made in Cumberland.

1. Jennifer Harrington and David Giles rush to meet a deadline. 2. 10th graders mingle during lunch. 3. Angie Sears talks more than she eats. 4. Samantha Randolph and her escort at the Homecoming game. 5. Louis Schalow and his partner dance the night away.

Halfway There!

Sophomores excitingly began this year expecting more opportunities in school activities. So far they seemed to have fun discovering and fulfilling their need for adventure. A sophomore was quoted as saying that "they were only halfway there but we are having fun in the process."

Yum! Yum!! That must be what is going through Mary Shanks mind as she eats.

Making It!

This is the best year so far — many sophomores said, "We have made it!" Sophomores were free to be involved in more activities and make important decisions. They debated on what kind of class ring to get. They wondered how long it would take to get their driver's license? They thought of going to college and taking SAT's. Some of the decisions could wait — they had it made as sophomores.

Stuck in The Middle!

The work was harder this year and the responsibility increased. Some tried hard for success. They have been told that they can have it made if they work and study and try. As was evidenced by the number of freshmen on the honor roll, some took this advice to heart.

We've Got Class

Finally the ninth grade was organized as a class. Sponsors were Mrs. Baker, Mr. Holmes, Coach Owen, Mrs. Bell and Mr. Webster. They had class officers, established class dues, and began to try to find ways of making money for their Junior and Senior years. Their new officers were Joyce Holman (President), Tammy McAbee (Vice-President), Christine Archer (Secretary), and Christine Booker (Treasurer).

1. Tammy Bartley looks at an interesting slide. 2. Jennifer Watson and Bonnie Weaver perform a stunt as a part of a J.V. Cheerleading squad's routine. 3. Saketra Trent and Chris Taylor are caught doing their classwork in Health.

Dreams and More Dreams

Freshmen had it made — in their dreams. They found the homework wasn't as easy as last year. The tests covered more material and still more requirements were being added for graduation, including extra math and vocational subjects.

1. Says Jennifer Clayton, "Just let me get home to my soapoperas." 2. Greg Giuriceo and Cindy Shores listen closely during English class. 3. The guilty party is none other than John Brown. 4. Next Year — What?

Students in the 8th grade couldn't decide if this was a good year to have been an 8th grader or not. Plans are in the preliminary stages to move the 7th graders back to the elementary school, which would mean that next year 8th graders would be on the bottom of the high school totem pole. This year was the first year that the 8th graders had organized as a class, with a president and class dues. Next year, there may be other academic requirements for 8th graders. As one 8th grader said, "I'm glad I was an 8th grader this year instead of next!"

1. Melissa Martin is caught, coming into Mrs. Jamerson's room, at lunch

2. Melissa Welch has her father to escort her out on the field at the homecoming game. 3. Kim Ross and Carolyn Owen were caught decorating their homeroom door for the Christmas Contest.

Just For Us?

Eighth graders this year moved up a step in prestige — the 7th and 8th grade students had a guidance counselor all to themselves, Ms. Doris Bean. Before, they had to wait in line to see a counselor and often felt that they were put on the bottom of the list. But this year they got to see a counselor sooner — this was more reason why CHS students should feel that they have it made.

"AND THEY'RE OFF!"

The seventh graders have only just begun on their journey to becoming seniors. Some were a bit frightened of leaving the elementary school, but as you can see from their smiles they are adjusting quite well. They have matured a great deal since elementary school and are working hard to graduate in their year of 1989.

Advertisements

Money collected through the sale of advertisements is the life blood of independant publications. Without the support of businesses in the Cumberland and Farmville area the production of this yearbook would have been impossible. Even with an economic recession and a low tax base and all the other problems which beset a small, poor locality, the merchants and businessmen still support the yearbook. THE DUKE has it made in Cumberland.

Working On It

CHS had it made in 1984. The boy's basketball team had a spectacular year, the math department got new computers, the School Board began a new publication — THE COURIER, the yearbook is still alive, the band members got their new uniforms, and the 8th, 9th, and 10th grades were organized as classes.

Of course things were left. The heating system didn't always work. Some buses were crowded. But the faculty, students, and administration were working and planning so that everyone could say "CHS has it made."

1. The CHS band shows great talent in the Christmas parade. 2. The Dukes defense stops the opposing team dead in their tracks. Later winning, over Lynchburg Christian 13-12. 3. Coach Walden and Coach Tillerson triumphantly hold up the trophy awarded for cross country track. 4. Dr. Banton congratulates Dr. Bashum upon receiving his doctorate. 5. Ben Varnier shows off on his greatest talents, standing around. 6. The Varsity Cheerleaders show their stuff at a pep rally. 7. CHS students work hard in their studies.

Have It Made

With all the problems the school had during the year and with all the headaches, most students thought it wasn't so bad — or so the general concensus said. There were no riots, no one actually froze, no one died of food poisoning, no one died from studying. RISE didn't even kill anyone. Administrators, students, faculty, and staff do have it made in Cumberland.
